6. FAQ and Best Practices

Should every team use Rooms?

Yes. Rooms keep discussions focused and prevent important context from disappearing in one long feed.

Who should be an Owner?

Use one accountable business owner or operator. Owners control billing, permissions, and sensitive settings.

When should I upgrade?

Upgrade when you need more capacity, unlimited history, Room email, employee clock-in policies, or deeper workforce controls.

Is TriCord a payroll processor?

TriCord helps organize payroll preparation and records. Review local payroll rules before replacing regulated payroll systems.

What makes a good knowledge article?

Use a clear title, a short summary, step-by-step instructions, owner information, and update it when the process changes.

How should files be handled?

Upload only business-appropriate files. Files over the product limit should be shared through a trusted cloud link.

Best practices

- Use specific post titles.
- Assign one accountable owner to each task.
- Archive completed work to keep views clean.
- Review Admin permissions regularly.
- Keep HR and payroll data limited to people who truly need it.
- Use Knowledge for repeatable processes instead of answering the same question repeatedly.

7. Security, Privacy, and Operational Notes

- Use role-based access so each person sees only what they need.
- Avoid sharing sign-in links or accounts.
- Review Rooms, Admin permissions, connected email accounts, and billing access regularly.
- Treat HR, payroll, attendance, and compensation records as sensitive business information.
- Use Plus or Pro premium controls when you need stronger operational oversight.
- Keep a documented process for offboarding users and reviewing retained records.
